

STUDIO AVNI'S FIN LIGHT SERIES

The Fin Light series draws from a variety of sources: geometry, nature and Indian legacy. The ethereal wall-hanging lights are a sculptural interpretation of biomorphism, making use of an array of fin modules around the spine of the structure. An ode to bilateral symmetry, the most highly recognised form of balance found in nature, the lights resemble scaly, bioluminescent marine creatures like sea anemone and jellyfish. They are designed in exact likeness to them, mimicking their geometries through reflection and the rotation of repeated elements. Moreover, the collection of lights are entirely handmade with traditional Indian handicraft techniques, and are available in brass, copper, silver, bronze, German silver and PVC.

POETIC LAB'S BAMBOO FOREST

The 'Bamboo Forest' is Poetic Lab's organic collection of eight pieces of furniture created using bamboo and glass, an exploration into traditional craftsmanship and contemporary production. Its raw appeal is offset by elegant shaping while its combination with transparent glass creates a void effect that makes objects on the table look as though they are floating within it. The bamboo is strengthened with special processes, but without affecting its natural shape and look. The collection includes coffee tables, a rectangular and round dining table, a shelving system and pendant lights.

CHRISTOPH FRIEDRICH WAGNER'S PLY COLLECTION

Wagner's collection experiments with ply, playing with the various properties of the material in order to create his collection. The pieces used in the furniture are assembled from individual frames, but the objects have the monolithic appearance of having been carved from the same block. The arrangement of surfaces is linear, while the tapered feet contrast the massive surface they carry. Characterised by uninterrupted structural lines, durability, exchangeable parts and wholesomeness, the collection is an exercise in efficient design and sustainability. The range of offerings include a bed, desk, sideboard, bedside table, lamps, vases, socket and storage boxes.

ANDREA BORGOGNI'S CAPRICE AND LADUCAST

Designed to bring together the fundamental geometry of a dining chair with a harmonious 3D surface, the Caprice is an attractive and unusual offering. Offering solid support along with freedom of movement, the chair can be split into two parts, easy for storage or shipping. The Ladu Cast shares the portability and space-saving characteristics of the Caprice, with a foldable quality akin to a book. The structure is made of casted aluminum with three stable legs and a backrest of stretched fabric, while the seat can be of a material of your choice, be it wood, plastic or fabric.
