A Guiding Light

PVC (polyvinyl chloride) has never looked this good before. Avni Studio's latest collection of statement lamps, the Faceted Tactile Light series, are made of cut PVC sheets which are stitched together to form a mosaic of tessellated geometrical form. Avni Sejpal, the brain behind the Mumbai-based design label, says that the inspiration behind the fixture was to create a "tactile and sensory experience of an otherwise mundane material" by a clever design manipulation. These beauties can be customised in beaten brass and white PVC. Check www.studioavni.com.
